Re: 2014 Quadrennial Regulatory Review, MB Docket Nos. 14-50, 09-182, 07-294 and 04-256; AM Revitalization, MB Docket No. 13-249

Dear Chairman Pai:

The National Association of Black Owned Broadcasters, Inc. ("NABOB") opposes any change in the Commission's local radio ownership rule, which limits the number of radio stations in either the AM or FM service in a market that a licensee can own (the "Subcaps rule"). In the largest Nielsen markets, a licensee may own up to 8 radio stations, but the Subcaps rule limits that licensee to owning no more than 5 stations in either the AM or FM service.¹ Recently several parties have proposed elimination of that rule.² As NABOB shall demonstrate below, elimination of the rule is not supported in the record, would undermine the Commission's efforts to revitalize AM radio, and would have a disproportionately negative competitive impact on African American and other minority owned AM radio stations.

On February 24, 2017, NABOB filed a letter in this proceeding that began my noting NABOB's long standing opposition to relaxation of any of the Commission's ownership rules.³ NABOB noted that the competitive landscape of the media industry has changed and stated that a relaxation of the radio-newspaper cross ownership rule may now be appropriate. NABOB's support of this relaxation was based upon the unique circumstances facing the newspaper industry as described by the National Newspaper Publishers Association, which represents 200 African American owned media companies.

Unlike the radio-newspaper cross-ownership situation, no circumstances exist to justify elimination of the Subcaps rule. The Subcaps rule primarily affects competition between local radio stations in a market. The rule was put in place because the Commission recognized that AM and FM radio stations have technological and marketplace differences that disadvantage AM stations. In adopting the Subcap rule in 1992, the Commission said:

The numerical limits also provide a significant safeguard against the possibility that one licensee could acquire a substantial market share, as measured by audience rating data, in any particular local market. In this regard, because stations in the FM service may in particular markets have an advantage over stations in the AM service, or vice versa, we have adopted separate limits for each. This approach will tend to prevent one entity from putting together a powerful combination of stations in a single service that may enjoy an advantage over stations in a different service. *We believe that this is particularly important with respect to the FM service, which in many markets enjoys significant competitive advantages.*⁴ (emphasis added)

In 2013, recognizing that the competitive situation of AM radio had worsened since adoption of the 1992 Subcap Order, the Commission initiated the AM revitalization proceeding to develop new proposals for improving AM radio's competitive position.⁵ In the AM Revitalization NPRM the Commission began by recognizing that:

The Commission's last comprehensive examination of the technical, legal, and policy issues relating to AM broadcasting took place a generation ago, in a proceeding that began with a 1987 Notice of Inquiry. In the more than quarter-century since, the challenges facing the AM band have increased dramatically. In the mid-1980s, AM radio represented 30 percent of the nation's radio listening hours. By 2010, that number had dropped to 17 percent, with AM radio comprising only 4 percent of listening hours among younger Americans.⁶ (footnotes omitted)

The Commission went on to note:

The causes of this decline are well-documented. As the Commission has previously stated, a combination of higher fidelity alternatives to AM radio and increased interference to AM radio have caused an erosion of the AM radio audience and the loss of young listeners to other programming outlets.⁷

The Commission specifically identified FM radio as one of the higher fidelity alternatives to AM radio.⁸ The Commission noted that in recent years it has been allowing AM stations to utilize FM translators as a means to help improve the competitive position of AM stations with respect to FM stations.⁹

After receiving comments from the industry and public, in the AM Revitalization Report and Order,¹⁰ the Commission announced a major modification of its rules to allow AM stations to move existing FM translators up to 250 miles to rebroadcast the AM station's signal.¹¹ The Commission opened two filing windows for such FM translator modifications in 2016.¹² The Commission added that, in 2017, it will open two windows allowing AM station licensees to apply for new FM translators.¹³

This history is recounted here solely for completeness of the record. You do not need to be reminded of these Commission actions for AM revitalization, because you were the leading voice on the Commission pushing for AM revitalization. As you pointed out in your statement associated with the AM Revitalization NPRM:

It's been over two decades since we last comprehensively reviewed our AM radio rules. Over that time, the AM band has struggled. Interference problems, declining listenership, and other factors have brought the band low. But millions of Americans—myself included—still rely on and believe in AM radio. So last September, I proposed that the FCC launch an AM radio revitalization initiative.¹⁴

And when the Commission adopted the AM Revitalization Report and Order, you issued a statement in which you stated:

...AM radio stations around this country...have informed and entertained listeners and created a sense of community—in some cases, for longer than the FCC itself has been around. But the AM band is struggling. Signal quality is low.

¹⁴ AM Revitalization NPRM, Statement of Commissioner Ajit Pai at 1.

Listenership is down. Advertising revenue is declining. And for a generation, the FCC has been on the sidelines. That's why, three years ago, I proposed that the Commission launch an initiative to revitalize AM radio. One year later, the FCC began its first comprehensive review of its AM radio rules in over two decades. And at long last, the Commission today is taking meaningful and concrete action to assist AM broadcasters across our country. This is a big victory for the American listening public.¹⁵

However, you also pointed out:

[W]e afford AM broadcasters additional opportunities to acquire FM translators, including through two exclusive windows for AM stations to obtain new FM translators. Over the last two years, AM broadcasters from Kansas to Mississippi have told me about the importance of the FM translator window proposal. Translators have helped them boost listenership and advertising dollars in a major way. *Now, translators are not the answer for the technical problems plaguing the AM band. But those problems are not going to be solved overnight. An FM translator can serve as a vital bridge to the future for an AM broadcaster as we work on fixing the AM band's long-term problems.*¹⁶ (emphasis added)

This record clearly demonstrates that you and the Commission continue to recognize that AM radio is not now, and is not likely to be in the near future, on an equal competitive level with FM radio. Thus, the argument of the parties proposing repeal of the Subcap rule is based upon a completely unsupportable premise. AM and FM radio stations are not indistinguishable from a competitive standpoint. Therefore, just as the Commission recognized in 1992, allowing one party to control up to eight FM radio stations in a market would give that party an enormous competitive advantage over the AM stations in that market. And, as you and the Commission have recognized in the AM Revitalization proceeding, AM continues to be in distress.

The Subcap Petitioners pretend that these facts do not exist. Rather, they assert that the record demonstrates “the strong performance of AM radio as a competitor,” and the “technical parity of AM and FM stations” as justification for elimination of the Subcap rule.¹⁷ These assertions are not supported by the record and are disingenuous at best. The record evidence relied upon by the Subcap Petitioners fails to paint an accurate picture of the competitive relationship between AM and FM radio.

Indeed, a review of Nielsen data for the top 50 radio markets bears out the lack of competitive equality between AM and FM stations. The Commission can take administrative notice of data published in various trade press. For example, Nielsen data published in Tom Taylor NOW is shown in the Attached Exhibit A. That data shows that, in the top 50 radio markets, 22 markets have no AM stations ranked among the top 10; 15 markets have only one

¹⁵ AM Revitalization Report and Order, Statement of Commissioner Ajit Pai.

¹⁷ Letter from Bob Proffitt, et al. at 3-4.

AM station ranked among the top 10; and 11 markets have two AM stations ranked among the top 10. No market has more than two AM stations ranked among the top 10.¹⁸

In your statement supporting the NPRM you recognized that minorities own a disproportionate number of AM stations.¹⁹ NABOB members own approximately 180 commercial radio stations. Of these, approximately 76 are AM stations. Of these AM stations, 51 are Class C and D AM stations, and none are Class A stations. Thus, NABOB's members will be impacted significantly if they are placed in the position of competing against group owners operating up to eight FM stations in a market.

Nothing has changed with respect to the technological and marketplace differences that disadvantage AM radio with respect to FM radio. Counting AM and FM stations on equal terms for application of the Commission's radio ownership rules flies in the face of everything the Commission has said and done to help AM radio. Elimination of the Subcap rule would undermine all of the Commission's efforts to revitalize AM radio. The requests to eliminate that rule must be denied.

Respectfully submitted,

¹⁸ Indeed, limiting the number of FM stations that a licensee can own in a market is probably very beneficial to AM revitalization. Licensees seeking to maximize the number of stations they own in a market currently must own AM stations. As business owners seeking to maximize the value of their investments, such owners are most likely the principal purchasers of state-of-the-art AM equipment and most likely the principal employers of AM engineers and consultants. If these companies were given permission to abandon AM radio as part of their market maximization strategies, AM equipment suppliers, engineers and consultants would suffer a significant loss of their best customers and employers. The result could negatively impact all remaining AM licensees and the listening public.

Nielsen Audio compiles and reports audience estimates for all radio stations in its surveyed markets, subject to its minimum reporting standards. The estimates for all reported stations are available only to Nielsen Audio Radio Market Report subscribers.

The subscriber list is based on information available to and processed by Nielsen Audio at the time of publication. A subscribing station may not appear if it recently changed its call letters or band, or if it was off the air during the recent reporting period.

All Nielsen data are protected under U.S. copyright law, state misappropriation law, and other state and federal laws. Violations of Nielsen's rights under U.S. copyright law may result in statutory damages per act of infringement and the recovery of Nielsen's attorneys' fees required to enforce Nielsen's rights, in addition to other rights and remedies under other applicable laws, such as the Lanham Act.

PPM™ is a mark of Nielsen Audio

PPM ratings are based on audience estimates and are the opinion of Nielsen Audio and should not be relied on for precise accuracy or precise representativeness of a demographic or radio market.

Nielsen Audio compiles and reports audience estimates for all radio stations in its surveyed markets, subject to its minimum reporting standards. The estimates for all reported stations are available only to Nielsen Audio Radio Market Report subscribers.

The subscriber list is based on information available to and processed by Nielsen Audio at the time of publication. A subscribing station may not appear if it recently changed its call letters or band, or if it was off the air during the recent reporting period.

All Nielsen data are protected under U.S. copyright law, state misappropriation law, and other state and federal laws. Violations of Nielsen's rights under U.S. copyright law may result in statutory damages per act of infringement and the recovery of Nielsen's attorneys' fees required to enforce Nielsen's rights, in addition to other rights and remedies under other applicable laws, such as the Lanham Act.

PPM™ is a mark of Nielsen Audio

PPM ratings are based on audience estimates and are the opinion of Nielsen Audio and should not be relied on for precise accuracy or precise representativeness of a demographic or radio market.

+Call letter change.

Nielsen Audio compiles and reports audience estimates for all radio stations in its surveyed markets, subject to its minimum reporting standards. The estimates for all reported stations are available only to Nielsen Audio Radio Market Report subscribers.

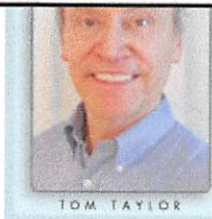

The subscriber list is based on information available to and processed by Nielsen Audio at the time of publication. A subscribing station may not appear if it recently changed its call letters or band, or if it was off the air during the recent reporting period.

+Call letter change.

Nielsen Audio compiles and reports audience estimates for all radio stations in its surveyed markets, subject to its minimum reporting standards. The estimates for all reported stations are available only to Nielsen Audio Radio Market Report subscribers.

The subscriber list is based on information available to and processed by Nielsen Audio at the time of publication. A subscribing station may not appear if it recently changed its call letters or band, or if it was off the air during the recent reporting period.

All Nielsen data are protected under U.S. copyright law, state misappropriation law, and other state and federal laws. Violations of Nielsen's rights under U.S. copyright law may result in statutory damages per act of infringement and the recovery of Nielsen's attorneys' fees required to enforce Nielsen's rights, in addition to other rights and remedies under other applicable laws, such as the Lanham Act.

PPM™ is a mark of Nielsen Audio

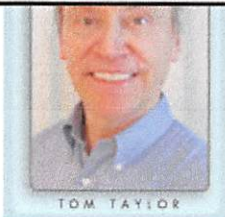

PPM ratings are based on audience estimates and are the opinion of Nielsen Audio and should not be relied on for precise accuracy or precise representativeness of a demographic or radio market.
